Scope and Audience

This policy applies to public-facing websites that represent a University division, department, program, center, institute, or other unit including University-recognized student organizations.

Additional Authority

• University Policy 1090 (Intellectual Property)
• University Policy 1130 (Use of Copyrighted Works)
• University Policy 8000 (Information Technology Resource Use)
• University Policy 8020 (Server Administration)
• University Policy 8140 (Information Technology Accessibility)
• University Policy 9180 (University Sponsorships)
1. Policy Purpose

To outline the rules and procedures for the use of public-facing websites, to properly portray and promote the University and protect the University’s brand and reputation, and to assist in developing and managing websites that comply with federal, state, and local laws.

2. Policy Statement

Boise State University recognizes the importance of using web-enabled technology to support its mission of teaching, research, creative work, and service to the community. Employees and students are encouraged to utilize such technology to assist the University in accomplishing its mission by creating accessible websites that support and promote University divisions, departments, programs, centers, institutes, and other units as well as their initiatives, research, and projects.

3. Responsibilities

3.1 Executive Director of Web Strategy

The Executive Director of Web Strategy, in consultation with the Chief Communications and Marketing Officer, is responsible for implementing and overseeing the University’s web strategy, providing access and training in the University’s official enterprise content management system, and providing oversight for all University websites in compliance with this policy.

3.2 Site Administrators

Site administrators are responsible for maintaining web content that is accurate and timely. Site administrators should ensure proper maintenance and follow all published University standards for form and content (see the Boise State University webguide).

4. University Web Templates

a. Site administrators must create and publish public-facing web pages using the University’s official enterprise content management, event management and constituent relationship management systems, or other hosted University web platforms as well as official University templates and styles.

b. Site administrators must not override, circumvent, or otherwise customize official web templates or styles.
c. All templates, features, and content management system functionality must be approved by the Executive Director of Web Strategy.

d. Use of other web templates, platforms (including Google Sites), or content management systems for public-facing web pages representing a University division, department, program, center, institute, or other unit including a University-recognized student organizations is not allowed unless granted an exception by the Executive Director of Web Strategy.

5. Web Page Standards

5.1 Responsible Use

The content of all web pages, including links to external websites not maintained or controlled by the University, must be consistent with University policies and any applicable local, state, and or federal laws.

5.2 Privacy

All University web pages must contain the University’s privacy statement which is included in the University web template.

5.3 Accessibility

All web content (including documents and media) must comply with web accessibility requirements as detailed in University Policy 8140 (Information Technology Accessibility).

5.4 Website Hosting for Non-University Units, Affiliates, and Organizations

Websites for entities such as professional associations, consortiums, or journals that are not a University division, department, program, center, institute, or other unit including a University-recognized student organization may be hosted on University servers only upon approval by the Executive Director of Web Strategy. The Executive Director of Web Strategy may grant such approval only if the entity has a relationship with the University that supports the University’s mission.

5.5 Fundraising

Non-University fundraising may not be conducted or placed on any web page owned or hosted by the University. Faculty, staff, and students may not conduct fundraising campaigns on behalf of the University on their personal web pages or website.
5.6 Paid Advertising and Sponsorships

5.6.1 Paid Advertising

a. Paid advertising by external, unaffiliated organizations on University websites must be pursuant to a Sponsorship Agreement with the University or Bronco Sports Properties, or be approved by the Office of Communications and Marketing. Paid advertising is defined as banner ads or any other promotional messages displayed on a website in exchange for direct compensation (monetary or otherwise) for their delivery.

b. University auxiliary-funded departments are not considered external organizations.

5.6.2 Sponsorships

a. Sponsors may be acknowledged on University websites for the programs supported by their contributions. These acknowledgments must be supported by a Sponsorship Agreement between the sponsor and the University or Bronco Sports Properties which specifies a limited term.

b. Use of University logos or trademarks in Sponsor ads on University websites or on Sponsor websites must be approved in advance by Trademark Licensing and Enforcement.

6. Third-Party Web Services

a. Third-party web services (tools, apps, websites, etc.) are allowed under certain circumstances to provide necessary functions. All third-party web services must be approved in advance by the Executive Director of Web Strategy and, if approved, will be subject to this policy.

b. Any web content hosted by a third-party must not convey the impression that the author is representing, giving opinions, or otherwise making statements on behalf of the University. Such content is the sole responsibility of the site owner and questions should be directed to the site owner. The University does not routinely monitor third-party web content.

7. Personal Web Pages and Websites

a. Personal web pages or sites created, managed, or used by University employees that are not hosted by the University are not official University web pages.
b. University employees should avoid creating confusion over whether a web page is associated with the University or is a personal web page of the employee.

c. University employees have the right to speak on matters of public concern using their personal web pages. However, matters related to their official job duties and employment are not usually matters of public concern.

8. Non-Compliance

a. The University reserves the right to edit, hide, or temporarily or permanently delete a University web page or website, or any content on a University web page or website for noncompliance with this policy or any other applicable University policy or violation of federal, state, or local law.

b. Violations of this policy will be referred to the appropriate vice president and may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal from employment.
